Youtubers have become a hot topic recently. People would upload videos about their pets, their fashion opinions, what they eat, or teach others about what they know best. Due to the lack of excitement in real life, some people turn to social media to get rid of boredom. ~~That's why youtubers have become so popular.~~ Watching Youtube videos is slowly becoming a daily ritual for a majority of people, and since texting friends is so easy these days, they might share the fun videos they have come upon with others. That is why Youtubers have become so popular.

The more subscribers a Youtuber has, the more people they can influence. By uploading new videos, Youtubers can deliver their own opinions and thoughts about things in life. When we watch them, we might slowly start to think that they are right, no matter it is about fashion tastes, product rates or even political opinions. Another influence Youtubers might have on people is how they can teach you new things in a video clip. From watching fun clips online, we might be able to learn a few things in an interesting way.

I personally think that Youtubers can affect a person in an amazing way — but sometimes shocking — way, whether it is learning through videos or getting new opinions from them. It is true that Youtubers can teach their audience lots of new things such as English or technology, because they are learning and having fun at the same time. That makes people interested in learning, so the results of teaching and learning with Youtube videos come back positive. Other than that, another good effect Youtubers cause is how they can spread their positivity throughout the Internet and around the world. When we watch videos made by a Youtuber with positive energy, we would slowly accept their thoughts and opinions. Before we know it, their positive feelings would have blended into our own causing us to affect even more people. That way Youtubers can influence lots and lots of people, and make the world a better place. But on the other hand, if Youtubers give out a bad vibe instead of a nice one, they might change people and their opinion towards things in life, which may affect the world in a terrible way. Either way, this proves that Youtubers can make an enormous influence on the society.

Youtube videos have become incredibly popular nowadays, and people from all around the world love them. I think watching them is a nice kind of entertainment, and certainly a great way to learn. In the meantime, though, it is important that we think about what we see in the videos instead of just accepting them all blindly. In conclusion, Youtubers have deeply affected the world by attracting the public's attention and we should know how to learn from them in a positive way.
